First and foremost, we must be shepherds after God's own heart. The phrase translated as “after my heart” in Jeremiah 3:15 means, literally, “like my heart” (kelibbi). If we want to lead people in God's ways, then our hearts, which include our thinking and choosing, not just our emotions, must be like God's own heart.

Lessons in Shepherding 1: God, Moses and David : 9Marks

Shepherds after My own Heart is a wonderful, rich overview of the shepherding tradition in the Scriptures. The author begins by discussing the nature of metaphors and how they work. He then looks at what shepherding was like in the ancient world and how leaders, both human and divine, were described in shepherd language.

The best study on Christian leadership I've ever read is Timothy Laniak's book, Shepherds after My Own Heart: Pastoral Traditions and Leadership in the Bible (IVP, 2006). Where many leadership books derive principles from business or bureaucratic settings, Laniak derives his from the heart of God, as expressed in the Biblical narrative.
